Dear Dr. Jablan,

Yesterday I amused myself by using METAfont to make a font based on one of your modular tiles. The font has your four characters, \verb|/x30|, \verb|/x31|, \verb|/x32|, and \verb|/x33|; I also added two experimental ones with a neutral center, \verb|/x34| and \verb|/x35|. With this font TeX can, for example, easily produce

\begin{verbatim}
 as well as your original \end{verbatim}

Would you object if I make the source code for this font freely available on my website and on the CTAN archive for TeX users? Of course I would credit you for the idea.

Sincerely,

Donald E. Knuth
Professor Emeritus of The Art of Computer Programming
